Haldeman advised Liaison Supervisor R. H. Haynes that this material, at the President's specific instructions, was to be handed to him personally, and in the event of his absence, it was to be given sealed to his Assistant, [REDACTED]. He instructed [REDACTED] in the presence of the Liaison Supervisor, that [REDACTED] was to hold it unopened for Haldeman.

Material previously furnished to General Haig for Dr. Kissinger would remain in that office. Haldeman advised that the material he receives would be kept in his personal safe in his office, and when he finished with specific items, he would return them to the Bureau through the same channels for destruction.

Haldeman stated that, in view of the fact that Kissinger would no longer be receiving this material, he would advise him on the evening of 5/14/70 of the President's instructions.

Dear Mr. Haldeman:

Following our conversation this morning, I have checked and found that K. Dunn Gifford, the Legislative Assistant to Senator Edward Kennedy, was at the Harriman residence for about two to two and one-half hours. As I indicated, he arrived and departed before any representatives of the State Department arrived at the residence. The representatives of the State Department were at the residence for three to four hours in the afternoon.
